Picture Exhibition Brought to S.T.C.

Demonstration School Is Holding Art Exhibit—Buy Your Ticket Now.

An exhibition of pictures is being held at the College now and will continue until Saturday, for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of pictures for the walls of the rooms in the Demonstration School. The exhibition is being held in rooms 129 and 130. The rooms will be open thruout the day. Tickets are on sale for twenty-five cents and one ticket will admit you as many times as you want to visit but is not transferable.

There will be two sizes of Elson prints for sale at twenty cents. These prints are very popular and would be of great value to the teacher. One who expects to teach would do well to buy several prints for her school-room. Orders for pictures will also be taken. All made over the expenses according to the contract must be spent for pictures for the school room.

Miss DeLuce will give a lecture each day on pictures. These lectures will probably be given at the off hours.

Miss LeLuce spoke in assembly on how to study and appreciate pictures. She gave this talk preceding the exhibit to help us appreciate the exhibit more.

The collection which is coming here is a large one and contains only the very best reproductions of the masterpieces of art of different countries and periods. Perhaps every gallery and country in the world would have to be visited to see the original pictures, which are here brought together in one collection.

The collection comprises two hundred subjects representing all the principal schools of art and including many reproductions of sculpture, architecture and important views from nature.

It is part of the school work to inculcate the qualities of culture and refinement in the children. The wholesome and refining influence of pictures of the right sort on the school walls is now generally recognized as one of the most valuable means of securing this end. The funds for purchasing such pictures, as well as an opportunity to make a selection from a very large number, is secured by means of the exhibition. The larger the attendance the greater the number of pictures that can be secured for the schools.

Do not fail to visit the exhibition

Seniors Have February Luncheon—Engagement of Vice-Pres. Is Announced.

One of the most unique and enjoyable social functions that the seniors have had was their February luncheon, Friday evening. The interesting and surprising feature was the announcement of the coming marriage of Olivette Godsey, vice-president of the class to Dr. Harry Dunshee of Stanberry.

The luncheon was held in the ladies' parlor and a color scheme of red and white was carried out. Pierced hearts were used for place cards. The valentine favors with red ribbons stretched to each plate were concealed in a large red covered center piece surrounded by Kewpies. Immediately after the luncheon each guest in turn drew a valentine and read the verse that came with it. Miss Winn, the last to draw for a favor secured the prize which was a large red heart containing the announcement of Olivette's engagement in the following verse:

A young lady whispered in Cupid's ear;
The end of her school days was drawing near.

But e'er she departs, she wishes the Seniors to know

She will be married e'er spring flowers blow.

She loves you all dearly and hates to depart

But a charming young doctor has captured her heart.

Olivette Godsey—Dr. Harry Dunshee.

During the remainder of the evening until time for the Warrensburg-Maryville game the seniors searched for hearts.

Each heart found directed the finder to perform some stunt. Miss Mae Leod proved herself a clever poetess by composing a poem about the seniors and their first bride. Edith Holt surprised the class by singing an eighteen verse song which began with Adam and Eve and ended with the present day.

The committee in charge of the luncheon was: Alma Lucas, Jessie Murphy and Bernice Rutledge.

Announcement to Teachers.

All teachers who were to have met with Mr. Cooper Saturday Feb. 19, for 'Vitalized Agriculture have postponed their meeting in order that they may attend the art exhibit at the State Teachers College.

and you will be fully repaid for the slight trouble and expense in the pleasure and profit you will gain for yourself, besides helping on the work.

The children of the College Park School will serve tea to the visitors during the exhibition.

Dramatic Class Gives Program in Assembly Feb. 8—Three Good Acts Presented.

The Dramatics class gave a most interesting program in Assembly, Feb. 8. Three brief sketches from well known plays were given. All members of the class had a part in the program. Their portrayal of the various characters show excellent work and an understanding of dramatic art. Every member of the class deserves praise for her work.

The scene from "The Merchant of Venice," was particularly well given. Edith Shoemaker as the mischievous Launcelot deceiving his father was a strong character. Alma Eaton as Launcelot's blind father also played a strong part.

The program was as follows:
1—Sheridan, "The School for Scandal"

Act I. Scenes II and IV.
Place—Lady Teazle's Boudoir. Sir Peter Teazle, a wealthy old bachelor has recently married a young country girl whose extravagance is the cause of their daily quarrels.
Lady Teazle—Mary Carpenter.
Sir Peter Teazle—Esther Foley.

2—Shakespeare, "The Merchant of Venice"

Act II. Scene 2.
Street in Venice, Launcelot Gobbo is running away from Shylock, the Jew, to whom he is apprenticed. In the street he meets his blind father who fails to recognize him.
Launcelot Gobbo—Edith Shoemaker.
Old Gobbo, his father—Alma Eaton.
3—Goldsmith, "She Stoops to Conquer"

Act I. Scene 1.
Living Room of the Hardecastle House.
Mr. Hardecastle—Edith Shoemaker
Mrs. Hardecastle—Esther Foley

Warrensburg Again Wins Over S.T.C.

Bear Cats Hold Warrensburg to Tightest Conference Score, 40-28.

The Bear Cats lost the hardest and closest game of the season to the Warrensburg teachers last Friday evening on the home court by the score of 40 to 28. The game was much closer than the score indicates and at no time were the college basketballers far behind. The score at the end of the first half was 18 to 12 in favor of the visitors.

The game was a trifle rough at times and once the referee was forced to halt the playing to caution the players.

Turner and York played classy ball throughout the whole game and as usual Kirby and Kidney played like veterans. Capt. Wells played the best ball he ever did.

For the visitors Dorland and Markey played stellar ball, in which they were ably supported by their teammates.

The line-up is as follows:

Maryville.

	F.G.	Fo.G.	F.
York, forward	2	0	1
Kirby, forward	5	4	3
Kidney, center	3	0	2

This Is Life.

A little sun, a little rain,
A little joy, a little pain,
A song of praise, a dirges strain,
And this is life.
Sometimes a crown, sometimes a cross,
Sometimes pure gold, sometimes dross,
Sometimes it's gain, sometimes loss,
And this is life.
Sometimes we're good and sometimes bad,
Sometimes we're happy, sometimes sad,
Sometimes good humored, sometimes mad,
And this is life.
Some poverty and then some wealth,
Some days of pain and then some health,
Some days of frankness, some of stealth,
And this is life.
A little wrong, a little right,
A little day, a little night,
A little shade, then all is light,
And this is life.
—Selected.

Miss Dow was given a surprise party to celebrate her birthday, Feb. 9. Miss MacLeod, Miss DeLuce, Miss Winn and the Misses Margaret and Minnie James presented her with gifts of various kinds, amusing, beautiful or delicious.

High School Students Organize.

The High School students of S. T. C. organized as a high school group Friday, Feb. 4, with James Draper, President and Dorothy Babb, secretary and treasurer. This group includes from forty to fifty students.

About ten of this group were then organized as a senior class in high school. Anna McElwain was elected President and Bessie Danner, secretary and treasurer. Dr. Keller was chosen for the advisor.

Students Have Celebration.

Everyone at S. T. C. wore a broad smile after seeing on the bulletin board that our boys won from Missouri Wesleyan Feb. 3. At 2:30 Friday afternoon the whole student body met in the West gym to learn the Virginia reel. All were enjoying themselves so much and dreading to settle to class work the next period, when Miss Brunner announced that all might stay the 3:20 period and celebrate our victory over Cameron. The afternoon was spent in grand marching and dancing. It was followed at 4:20 by the inter-society basket ball games.

Demonstration School Notes.

Tuesday, Feb. 8 the pupils of the sixth grade entertained the members of the Technique class by a dramatization of three scenes from "The King of the Golden River." One pupil told the story of the parts of the story that they couldn't dramatize. This play was gotten up by the pupils on their own initiative, no one assisting them. They got the idea of the play from their reading lesson.

The ingenuity shown by the children was rather amusing. They turned the teacher's desk around and used the back of it for a fire-place.

Screens were used for the walls of the house. Outside of these was the open. Programs giving the name of the play and cast of characters were distributed. They got this idea from seeing the programs given out in assembly for Miss Dow's plays. The play was thoroughly enjoyed by all those present because it was all the pupils' own work.

The third and fourth grades are dramatizing "The Blue-Bird."

The pupils of each room of the Demonstration school are studying pictures that appear in the exhibit. They are planning to give talks about the pictures to the students of the observation classes.

The children of the Demonstration school were pleased with the work of Miss Dow's Dramatic Class and came away so filled with the spirit of dramatic that they took the initiative in dramatizing the stories that they read.

Before the day was over, the pupils of the sixth grade were scouring around finding out all they could about dramatization. Some of them inspected the college wardrobe.

The Stroller.

The Stroller decided to take a day off last week and spend it in the library. After doing observation work for a short time she decided to make a set of rules to recommend to the librarian but remembering how a set of rules formerly antagonized his friends in the grades and high school, she decided to just comment on a few things, reserving other scenes and individuals for comment later.

One of the first sights that attracted her attention was Mr. Steinsmeyer sprawling over tables, pushing books aside, knocking several piles of books over and in general making work for the librarian. Now such actions might be all right on a field trip, in the agriculture class or on the school farm, but are out of place in a stack room. If he wishes to join the library force that would be the proper place for him.

He has a good excuse, however, as he wanted to hear what Edith Holt and her visitor were talking about. The Stroller was interested and was thinking of getting closer himself when she heard one of the librarians say, "It seems as tho everybody has to get used to Edith's having some one call on her; you see he calls on her the same time every day, stays the same length of time, and she smiles just as if they had not had that same conversation every day, and looks just as happy as when he repeated that same conversation 218 times back. The Stroller did not find out the caller's name but suggests that if you want to know you inquire of Edith.

Deciding to pass some of the time in reading the newspaper, the Stroller looked up one side of the paper rack and down the other, then did the same thing over again; but the paper he wanted was not there. Then she noticed a collection of papers scattered over the library tables. He wondered why the students did not replace the papers and decided to try to find out. She finally came to the conclusion that students, after absorbing the weighty material found in the papers and magazines, were not able to replace them.

After leaving her paper on the rack, the Stroller remembered that people forget nine-tenths of all they learn, but she resolved to include putting magazines and papers away in her one-tenth division for remembering. He hopes you will do the same hereafter.

The Stroller heard Mr. Wells say that lady members of the faculty will not find their favorite magazines or reference book on reserve even if they insist. Of course students should not use them when the faculty want them. Undoubtedly the students would gladly leave the magazines at the college if they knew how disappointed the faculty members were at times. The Stroller suggests that any faculty member, desiring in the future to read his favorite magazine at a certain time should advertise in advance, so they can at least be on the waiting list. It is very inconvenient to have some other instructor assign a reference in that particular work just when you wanted your magazine.

The Stroller decided that the librarians have a hard time of it because the students and faculty are so thoughtless. Think this over and then "turn over a new leaf."

This week the Stroller is busy planning her costume for the colonial party. He observed closely how Esther Foley made up her costumes for the play Tuesday, both as a man and as a woman. The boys will have an easy time getting ready. All they need is their regular suits with lace at the neck and cuffs and the coat pinned back at the sides and some powder in their hair. Besides didn't the Courier of last week say that any girl would help any boy fix his costume, so there is no excuse for a boy who can't get a girl's help in this school. The girls can use an evening or summer dress and make panniers and a fichu out of some contrasting material. Any one who stays away will be sorry. Don't be too lazy to make a costume.

The Return of the Prodigal Son.

Once in the dim dark days beyond recall there was a lad who had not reached the years of discretion who attended our College. He was carrying one subject and dragging three. This said subject in which he had obtained such a degree of proficiency was salesmanship. One day when the roll was called down yonder he was not there. This being almost an every day occurrence the teacher did not worry, but when two weeks had passed the instructor's head was as gray as Paul Miller's sweater. He was indeed venerable and hoary. His voice sounded like a rusty hinge and he walked like a semicircle. The condition grew so serious that the other members of the class knew that something must be done or else there would be another tomb-stone by the side of that one of "Little Mike." The condition grew so serious that the national anthem of the class was "Where is my wandering boy tonight."

It was found out that the person under discussion, believing himself to be at the height of perfection as a salesman had gone in search of a job. Failing in this respect he had for the past two weeks been selling his LINE to a certain girl in the library.

A committee was sent after him and soon the door to the salesmanship room flew open and our own hero was precipitated in head first. As he arose and collected his thoughts and pencils and cigarettes, he cried in anguish wild, "Son Raymond come home to die." You prevaricate, you canine wretch, quoth the ancient pedagogue, "You come home to eat."

No puzzle is solved until the last vestige of doubt is gone. Our hero was none other than our own Dean Partridge.

Girls of Society Are Having Basketball Tournament.

The two most exciting games of the season took place in the west gym Friday afternoon, Feb. 4, when the Philo and Eureka girls and boys played inter-society games. The girls teams were evenly matched and the score was in doubt all the way thru. The final score was 14-12 in favor of the Eureka girls. This was due partly to the valiant playing of Lela Ulmer as jumping center. The most exciting part of the game in Ruth Bookman's estimation, was the fact that she threw three field goals.

The boys game was arranged on short notice. Some of the Philo boys were away with the team on the trip to Cameron and Canton, but substitutes from the crowd were put in to fill up the team. The score was rather one sided from start to finish, the final score being 26-4 in favor of the Eureka boys. Luther DeMoss, Eureka, refereed the game. If the Philo boys had played only as well as the Philo girls "rooted," the score would have been a different story.

Miss MacLeod is planning a series of inter-society tournament games to begin this week. All girls should loyally support their society and get in on the games. The fun of playing more than pays for the trouble.

The line up in the girls game Friday was: Eureka—Ruth Bookman, F.; Garten, F.; Remus, C.; Ulmer, C.; Perry, G.; Miller, G.; Lape Sub. Philomathean: Eaton, F.; Birt, F.; Rausin, C.; Rutledge, C.; Bonham, G.; Daniels, G.; Blacklock, Sub.; Younger, Sub.

The Excelsior and Philomathean girls played an intersociety basketball game Tuesday Feb. 8. The score was 16-0 in favor of the Philos. The Excelsior girls put up a good clean game, their main trouble being the shortness in stature of their forwards against the tall Philo guards. The Philo line up was the same as in the Eureka game except Miller as running center in the place of Rutledge.

The Excelsior line up: Hinkle, F.; McElroy, F.; Terry, C.; Laughlin, C.; Griffin, G.; McGuire, G. Subs.—Thompson—Grimes.

The schedule for other society games is as follows:
Feb. 14—Philo vs. Eureka.
Feb. 16—Eureka vs. Excelsiors.
Feb. 21—Philo vs. Excelsiors.

Miss Arnett spent the week end Jan. 28-30 in Kansas City Mo., the guest of relatives.

While in Kansas City, Miss Arnett attended the first of a series of lectures on Practical Psychology and Psychol-Analysis, by Dr. O. E. Miller of London, who is President of the International Applied Psychology Society. These lectures were extremely interesting.

Y. W. C. A.

The regular weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was opened with the singing of a song which was followed by the devotions, led by Wave Hulet. The program was as follows:

Piano Solo ..... Alice Welling
Reading ..... Mary Hansell
Talk ..... Mr. Miller

"What are the gateways to the human soul," asked Mr. Miller. Jesus often appealed to the people thru their reason. Many think that the reason is the greatest gateway to the human soul. But there are many others. Another is imagination. It is not the reality of things that makes us satisfied with life. It is the ideality. One of Jesus' strong appeals to the people was thru the stories he told them. The reality of life is too much of a hum-drum. One who does not use his imagination to strengthen himself is to be pitied.

"The third gateway is friendship. Friendships have made the world. God wants us to believe that someone is interested in us."

"Another gateway and the widest gate, the gate that is guarded most zealously is love."

"Let us open all these gateways and permit these influences to enter and we will be blessed as never before."—This was Mr. Miller's message to us.

A. C. A. Meets.

The Association of Collegiate Alumnae held its regular monthly meeting the evening of Feb. 8 at the home of Miss Mae Corwin with Miss Mildred Miller as assistant hostess.

Miss Blanche Laughlin, Nodaway County Red Cross nurse gave a talk on "Health." She said that to prevent the inception and spread of disease, Maryville needs the extension of the present sewerage and water system; daily testing of the city water; more stringent rules in quarantining for contagious diseases; and the abolition of the public drinking cup and Cloth-towel.

Two vocal numbers, "Melisande in the Wood" (Goetz) and "When the Roses Bloom" (Reichardt) were rendered by Miss Margaret James accompanied by Miss Arrolaine Smith. A piano solo, "A la Garotte" (Karganoff) was also given by Miss Arrolaine Smith.

After the program light refreshments were served to the twenty members and guests present. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Katherine Carpenter.

Notes of the Men's Meeting.

Another meeting was held last Wednesday for the young men of the College. President Richardson gave a short talk which was followed by one from Dr. Hobbs. Dr. Hobbs continued his talks on Hygiene; the last one will be given next Wednesday.

After the talk by Dr. Hobbs the rest of the hour was spent in singing under the leadership of Mr. Kutshinski.
